NEW QUESTION: 2

You and your team completed a successful deployment and Go-live cutover. In the first week following the Go-live cutover, your customer reports issues related to system setup and configuration. The customer asks to add fields to a report and to assist users in completing the new work procedures.

How do you manage these requests?

A. Implement the Customization Review optimization offering to make sure that the quality of the customizations is guaranteed.

B. Confirm that your team is able to help and resolve the issue. The customer needs to be informed that the project was closed by realizing a successful Go-live and that this new involvement cannot be considered as part of the agreed project budget.

C. Update this new information in the project's risk register, and then immediately plan a Steering Committee meeting. These requests indicate that some risks might have unfolded and you need to implement the contingency plan as soon as possible.

D. Make an application consultant available for remote and/or on-site support during these two weeks. This is covered by the project budget and no extra funding is required.

Answer: D
