Which of the following is this an example of?
A. Offline dictionary attack
B. Online hybrid attack
C. Offline brute force attack
D. Online rainbow table attack
Answer: B
Explanation:
This is an example of an online hybrid attack. A hybrid attack is a combination of attacks. In this example, we have a combination of a dictionary attack and a brute-force attack.
A brute force attack is a trial-and-error method used to obtain information such as a user password or personal identification number (PIN). In a brute force attack, automated software is used to generate a large number of consecutive guesses as to the value of the desired data.
A dictionary attack uses a list of words to use as passwords. The combination or hybrid attack adds characters or numbers or even other words to the beginning or end of the password guesses. In this example we have a password guess of 'admin'. From the word admin, we have four combinations, 'admin1, 1admin, admin2, 2admin'.

Preserving Data Quality How might you use validation rules to prevent data loss?
Answer:
Explanation:
Validation rules in conjunction with a roll-up summary field can be used to prevent users from adding or deleting records. To create a validation rule:
1. Build a roll-up summary on the parent object that sums the number of child records. 2. Create a validation rule on the parent object that conditionally prevents changes to the number listed in the roll-up summary field. If a user tries to add or delete a record, the validation rule prevents the user from doing that.
