NEW QUESTION: 1

You are developing a web application that connects to an existing virtual network. The web application needs to access a database that runs on a virtual machine.

In the Azure portal, you use the virtual network integration user interface to select from a list of virtual networks. The virtual network that the web application needs to connect to is not selectable.

You need to update the existing virtual network so you can connect to it.

What should you do?

- A. Enable point-to-site VPN with a dynamic routing gateway.
- B. Enable site-to-site VPN.
- C. Enable point-to-site VPN with a static routing gateway.
- D. Enable ExpressRoute.

Answer: A

Explanation:

A Point-to-Site (P2S) VPN gateway lets you create a secure connection to your virtual network from an individual client computer. Point-to-Site VPN connections are useful when you want to connect to your VNet from a remote location, such when you are telecommuting from home or a conference. A P2S VPN is also a useful solution to use instead of a Site-to-Site VPN when you have only a few clients that need to connect to a VNet. A P2S VPN connection is established by starting it from the client computer.
