NEW QUESTION: 1Note: This question is part of a series of questions that use the same scenario. For your convenience, the scenario is repeated in each question. Each question presents a different goal and answer choices, but the text of the scenario is exactly the same in each question in this series.You maintain a Microsoft SQL Server instance that contains the following databases SalesDb1, SalesDb2, and SalesDb3. Each database has table named Products and Sales. The following table shows the configuration of each database.The backup strategies for each database are described in the following table.Each full or differential backup operation writes into a new file and uses a different sequence number. You observe the following database corruption issues. SalesDb3 reports a number of database corruption issues related to error 823 and 824 when reading data pages. You must display the following information about the corrupted pages: * database name* impacted file id* impacted file physical name* impacted page id* event type that identifies the error type* error count

Users report performance issues when they run queries against SalesDb2. You plan to monitor query statistics and execution plans for SalesDb2 by using Query Store. The monitoring strategy must meet the following requirements: * Perform automatic data cleanup when query store disk usage reaches 500 megabyte (MB). * Capture queries based on resource consumption. * Use a stale query threshold value of 60 days. The query optimizer generates suboptimal execution plans for a number of queries on the Sales table in SalesDb2. You will create a maintenance plan that updates statistics for the table. The plan should only update statistics that were automatically created and have not been updated for 30 days. The update should be based on all data in the table. You need to view the information about the corrupted pages on SalesDb3. How should you complete the Transact-SQL statement?

Select two.

A. WHERE event_type = 1
B. WHERE event_type = 3
C. WHERE event_type = 2
D. SELECT * FROM msdb..suspect_pages
E. SELECT * FROM system..corrupted_pages
F. SELECT * FROM system..suspect_pages
G. SELECT * FROM msdb.. corrupted_pages

Answer: C, D

Explanation: The suspect_pages table contains one row per page that failed with a minor 823 error or an 824 error. Pages are listed in this table because they are suspected of being bad, but they might actually be fine. When a suspect page is repaired, its status is updated in the event_type column. The suspect_pages table resides in the msdb database. SalesDb3 has pages with checksum errors. Checksum errors have the event_type value 2.

NEW QUESTION: 3 The primary purpose for using one-way encryption of user passwords within a system is which of the following?
A. It minimizes the amount of storage required for user passwords.
B. It minimizes the amount of processing time used for encrypting passwords.
C. It prevents an unauthorized person from trying multiple passwords in one logon attempt.
D. It prevents an unauthorized person from reading or modifying the password list.

Answer: D

Explanation: This kind of encryption flavor increases security for passwords, if you use a one way encryption algorithm, you know that the encryption is not reversible, you cannot get the original value that you provided as a password from the resulting hash with any key or algorithm. This increase security in the way that when a person see the password list, it will only see the hash values and cannot read the original password or modify them without getting corruption.
