NEW QUESTION: 1

A banking customer needs to monitor transactions and determine when processing is out of normal operating ranges. The metrics will compare transaction rates processed in a 10 minute window to other rates measured in that same 10 minute window (same day of week and time interval), averaged over the previous 30 days. Transaction data is distributed over MQ Series middleware and an Oracle database is available for historical trending analysis. Alerts need to be sent when the latest 10 minute window is over 1000 percent of the previous 30-day average. Which statement is correct about Real-time Monitoring (RTM)?

- A. RTM can aggregate the transaction data by 10 minute windows, but cannot do the historical data comparisons.
- B. RTM can only access data stored in the Oracle database.
- C. RTM can perform all of the requirements described.
- D. RTM can perform all of requirements except for the alert conditions.
