NEW QUESTION: 1
Your network contains an Active Directory domain named contoso.com. The domain contains a member server named Server
1. Server1 has the IP Address Management (IPAM) Server feature installed. A technician performs maintenance on Server1. After the maintenance is complete, you discover that you cannot connect to the IPAM server on Server1. You open the Services console as shown in the exhibit. (Click the Exhibit button.)
You need to ensure that you can connect to the IPAM server.
Which service should you start?
Exhibit:

A. Windows Event Collector
B. Windows Internal Database
C. Windows Store Service (WSService)
D. Windows Process Activation Service
Answer: B

NEW QUESTION: 2
Which of the following computerized control procedures would be most effective in ensuring that data uploaded from desktop computers to a serer are complete and that no additional data are added?
A. Self-checking digits to ensure that only authorized part numbers are added to the database.
B. Passwords that effectively limit access to only those authorized to upload the data to the mainframe computer.
C. Batch control totals, including control totals and hash totals.
D. Field-level edit controls that test each field for alphanumerical integrity.
Answer: C
Explanation:
Batch control totals for the data transferred can be reconciled with the batch control totals in the existing file. This comparison provides information on the completion of the data transfer. Batch totals may include record counts, totals of certain critical amounts, or hash totals. A hash total is a control total without a defined meaning, such as the total of employee numbers or invoice numbers, that is used to verify the completeness of data. Thus, the hash total for the employee listing by the personnel department could be compared with the total generated during the payroll run.
