NEW QUESTION: 1

You created a Database as a Service (DBaaS) instance. This action also created a virtual machine and configured it for the DBaaS instance. It also created two user accounts. One of the users is oracle.

What three functions can the oracleuser perform?

- A. Create database users.
- B. Reboot a VM.
- C. Use the sudo command to perform root user access operations.
- D. Grant privileges and roles to database users.
- E. Create tablespaces.
- F. Back up and recover databases.

Answer: A,D,F

Explanation:

Explanation/Reference:

oracle is the Oracle Database administrator account you use to access the system and perform non-root database administration tasks. A home directory, /home/oracle, is created for this user. This user cannot use the sudo command to perform operations that require root-user access. Additionally, by default you cannot connect as this user to the compute node using SSH. You can add the public key to the user's $HOME/.ssh/authorized_keys file to grant persistent SSH access, or you can connect as the opc user and then use the sudo -s command to start a root-user command shell, followed by an su - oracle command to switch to the oracle user.

Incorrect Answers:

F: root is the root administrator for the system. You do not have direct access to this account. To perform operations that require root-user access, use the sudo command as the opc, not the oracle, user.
