Select "No change is needed" if the underlined text makes the statement correct. A. splitting B. branching C. No change is needed D. merging Answer: B
Explanation: When you develop applications in a team-based environment, you might need to access multiple versions of your application at the same time. If you copy one or more areas of your code into a separate branch, you can update one copy while you preserve the original version, or you can update both branches to meet different needs. Depending on your development goals, you can later merge the changes from multiple branches to create a single version that reflects all changes.
